NEGRO ROW LANDS FOUR IN COURT

Mrs. Smith, Janesville Medium, and Three Men Before Maxfield.

Four negroes, one a woman chay-vant, fell into the hands of Janesville police following an early morning brawl and bottle-beating melee shortly after 1 a. m. Saturday at the home of Henry White, 115 North Washington street, porter at the Northwestern depot here.

All were charged with intoxication when arraigned before Judge H. L. Maxfield, Saturday, and their cases disposed of as follows:

Frank Steele, Delavan lake, fined $25 and costs on 30 days. Fine paid.

Vernon Johnson, Delavan lake dismissed and with Steele, ordered to stay out of Janesville.

Henry White, case adjourned to Aug. 11. Released on own recognizance.

Woman Put Up Fight.

Mrs. Smith, a woman in hysterical condition when she was arrested in connection with a call from White, and Patrolmen Patrick Stein and William Ford were obliged to struggle with her for close to a half hour to get her into the patrol. She continued to show fight when time for her arraignment, in court at 10 a. m., came and rather than drag her to the court room to her. Accordingly she was arraigned before Judge Maxfield in her cell in the basement of the city hall and denied the charge.

White Ordered Them Out.

Steels and Johnson, driven to Janesville from Delavan lake, and had obtained Mrs. Smith to come along to Frank's Inn, where it was hoped to hire negro girls for help at a Delavan lake resort, according to the police. While in Freeport, some of the visitors partook of some liquor, it was testified.

Mrs. Smith has rented rooms at the White residence since she was uninvited to stay at this house from Freeport that the fight started. White is alleged to have refused admittance to all three of the party, and pushed Johnson off the front porch. Steele departed in a hurry, according to his story, and White threw "pop" bottles at him as he proceeded north on Washington street.

White was given orders by Judge Maxfield, Saturday, to get his house cleaned up.

"That's what I was tryin' to do last night," White replied. "I've always tried to live respectably and do what's right and I regret that this thing happened to me."

You always had a pretty good reputation in Janesville, Henry," said the court, "but you won't have it unless you clean house at once. In the future don't allow any white women in your house no matter whether or not they say they're employed by Mrs. Smith as maids."

Ryan Firm Gets $5,600 Road Job

Plans for 1924.

Even while the body of President Harding was being prepared for burial the nation was asking what this tragic ending of an otherwise perfect day, Thursday, meant to the people in 1924.

Calvin Coolidge was accepted as president because that is a part of the constitutional law of the land and we are a nation of orderly believers in the constitution when it comes to its application.

For the last few months there has been a determined effort on the part of a number of the political leaders—a remnant of the old regime—to sidetrack Mr. Coolidge and name some other man as vice-presidential candidate to run with Mr.
Harding. But death has changed all that. The man whom they would have sent to private life sits at the head of the table. He will be president of the United States for one year and six months almost to a day. He will have all the power possessed by Mr. Harding. And when the national convention comes along next June he will have a following for the presidency to succeed himself. It may be that in that convention with more favorite sons than were at Chicago, in 1920,
he will be selected to lead the republican party.

For whatever we have known of Calvin Coolidge as vice-president of the United States does not count when he is president. The vice president has no place in the government except to preside over a body of which he is not a member and in which he has no vote, is out of touch and often out of harmony with the more powerful leaders. It is true that Vice-President Coolidge was invited to and did sit in cabinet meetings and that his advice from time to time was sought.
How much was given, how far accepted, the public has no knowledge since the meetings of the cabinet are private and executive to the final degree.

Had he lived, Mr. Harding would have been the nominee of the party. No matter how many assaults might have been made on his fortifications he was entrenched beyond successful attack. He has been the rallying center of the republican party—the answer as to what is a republican? His almost foregone nomination has excluded Hiram Johnson and others from the field, and whom now we may expect to be active candidates for the nomination. It is impossible to say what Calvin Coolidge may do to entrench himself with the people and strengthen himself in the next eight months before the convention.

But it is possible for the machinery of the party to accept him as a necessity rather than to fly to some other candidates who will have weaknesses which are not in Calvin Coolidge. He certainly would prefer to Watson or Lowden or Johnson and preferred above all others to a half-dozen who hung onto the republican name in hope that the party will be turned over to them to destroy or play with.

There is no use of concealing the fact that the republican party is in a critical period. It will be more emphasized in the next few weeks. There is need for unselfish men now if ever. The ambitious and ruthless should seek cover or compromise. The nation's affairs are at stake. The attempt to capture the republican party for either of the twin enemies of the republic—the vicious extremist of wealth and the equally vicious enemy of republican government—the radical destroyer, must both be combated by the people who demand only their constitutional rights and that they be saved from both kinds of exploitation.

It may as well be understood that Mr. Coolidge is not a president to be trifled with. He has both a will and executive ability. Both have been demonstrated. Nor is he a good politician. He plays no game of politics for future upbuilding of a career. He believes in this republic as founded by the fathers and that the constitution is something more than a mere jumble of words. He has the attribute of a truly great man in his modesty, also he is a true type of American in his home life. In making up the sheet of reckoning for the next year Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, must be taken into consideration.

pensive than the moonshine.

Fashionable Washington.

The Wausau Record-Herald has many regrets over fashionable Washington and the social amenities which are supposed to be entailed upon the lawmakers of the nation who are compelled by anxious constituents to go there. "Too much society and too little representation of the constituents back home," is going to be changed some day, we are told. It always is "going to be changed some day." Everything is, so long as a man, and a woman even more so for that matter, belong to the gregarious type of animal we shall probably have society just the same as they do in Wausau and Black Creek, Janesville or Chicago. Washington society differs but little from the society of any other place great or small.
You may or may not like it. A congressman may or may not be in it. It demands more or less time, just as one chooses, whether at home or in Washington. One attends church, goes to parties or picnics, school doings, attends social gatherings at neighbors' homes, visits here and there,
"making calls" whether in the township or the town all within his own or his wife's choice. It is no different at Washington than in Wausau.

THE SOUTH'S LABOR PROBLEM

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington—Since last November approximately 312,000 colored workers have migrated from the south to industrial centers north of the Mason and Dixon line, according to figures compiled by government statisticians. More than 32,000 negro farm hands or laborers have left Georgia, 22,750 negro farmers have moved north from South Carolina, Arkansas has lost some 30,000. Alabama has reported that approximately 34 per cent of the whole body of negro farm workers of that state have joined the migration, and other southern states show proportionate losses.

The result of this movement is that the south has a labor problem that is rapidly becoming acute. The south can not get along without the negro with his "Missouri tractor," as the well known mule is sometimes called, or if it loses him must find other labor to take his place.

At the same time it is to be expected that industrial conditions in the north will be complicated by this great influx of negro workers from the south, and labor troubles may develop that will prove fully as embarrassing as a labor shortage.

Until the last decade the movement of the southern negro has always been to the southwest, although considerable numbers of them went north. This was changed, however, when the war came on and there was such a demand for labor in the munition plants of the north. It was estimated that 460,000 colored workers were lured from the plantations and farms of Dixieland to the mills and shops of northern cities, and at least 200,000 of them stayed on after the war was over.

Most of these latter had friends and relatives down south to whom they were soon writing alluring letters of easily secured jobs at high wages and it was not long until the northward movement had set in. For example, a government expert has figured it out that in 22 trades in the manufacture of cotton, the only large industry shared by northern and southern states, Massachusetts pays almost double the wages that are paid in the south. Common labor in almost all the trades and industries in the north gets from 45 cents an hour up, and when the southern negro has that kind of bait dangled before him he is inclined to take it, hook line and sinker.

The bolt weevil, the pest that has added so much to the economic difficulties of the south, is held partially responsible for the labor exodus
in a statement issued by the Department of Agriculture, which says:

"Bolt, weevil conditions last year, which made cotton growing unprofitable for a number of negro farmers, unwise among returning negro troops, who experienced more attractive living conditions away from farms during and after the war, and breakdown of the contract labor system are given as contributory causes."

This explanation is amplified in a letter received by the Department of Labor from a southern state official, himself a white man, who says that better wages, improved housing facilities, broader latitudes of social equality, political equality, et cetera, are among the reasons for the movement of the southern negro to the north and east, and adds:

"To the mind of the writer, however, the principal cause for such a noticeable exodus is higher wages and cash weekly, and the generally unfair advantages taken of the ignorant,

Bears Have Best
of Stock Trading
on N. Y. Exchange

New York — Alternate periods of weakness and strength characterized this week's security prices with net losses exceeding net gains at the close of business Thursday night.

President Harding's illness and Premier Baldwin's speech setting forth that there was no hope of an immediate agreement between Great Britain and France and Belgium on German reparations, were the principal causes for the reactionary movements which were started by the heavy offerings of professional speculators for the decline.

Domestic trade developments were largely favorable. These included excellent earning reports by the U. S. Steel, General Motors and Studebaker corporations, the American Locomotive company and several old large industrial concerns; a bullish government report on cotton and another week of record breaking car loadings.

Falling some of the northwest railroads to earn their fixed charges in recent months resulted in rather persistent liquidation of those shares. Sugars were heavy as a result of further reductions in the prices of raw and refined products. Rumors of impending fire cuts, however, later denied. Oils continue to lose ground.

French and Belgian francs dropped to their lowest quotations of the year. Other exchanges also lost ground. German marks, however, around the dollar level, while the Canadian rates softened when the mark and requirements had been disposed of. Time money continued to be offered at 5% per cent with five bid, but business was quiet.

CLAIMS ELIMINATION OF
RADIO INTERFERENCE

London.—An instrument which it is claimed, marks the most important advance in wireless telegraphy yet made, is described by its inventor, a Frenchman named Yves Marrec, as eliminating jamming and interference and reducing the cost of wireless messages by at least one-third.

The new device receives and prints wireless messages on a tape, something which, it is claimed, has never before been accomplished.

M. Marrec employs a supplementary apparatus consisting of a series of low-frequency valves, which eliminates all obtruding sounds one by one, with the result that the message for which the machine is "tuned in" comes out as clearly as though there was only one operating station in the world, thus suppressing "parasitic" noises, the apparatus completely eliminating every interfering message sent out from other transmitting stations.

RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION IN THE U. S.

By Albert B. Cummins, United States Senator from Iowa, and Chairman of the Committee on Interstate Commerce of the Senate. (Copyright, 1923.)

Article III—Experience of the railroads following government operation. Insufficient earnings of some Class I roads and of nearly all short-line roads.

In 1920, a year that embraced two months of government operation and 10 months of private operation, the net railway operating income of the class I railroads was $58,151,562. The private railroad operating income means, in the reporting and accounting system of the Interstate commerce commission, the sum applicable to the payment of dividends upon stock or interest upon bonds. The above amount does not include the sum paid by the government under the standard contracts with the railroads from March 1 to Sept. 1, 1920. It is about one-third of 1 per centum upon the valuation of all the rail way property, as fixed by the Interstate commerce commission, and about one-tenth of the annual interest upon outstanding bonds and obligations.

In 1921, the net railway operating income of these roads was $815,945,614, about 3 1/3 per centum upon the value so fixed, and just a trifle more than was required to pay interest on bonds and other obligations. For the year 1922, the net railway operating income of these roads was $776,005,050; about 4 1/8 per centum on the value, and something like $150,000,000 more than enough to pay interest on bonds and other obligations and which could have been applied to dividends upon stock.

At this point it may be remarked that notwithstanding the shortcomings of facilities there was no weight moved in 1920 than in any year in the history of the country. In order that every reader may understand the full significance of these figures it ought to be remembered that the only general increase in freight or passenger rates which has occurred since March 1, 1920, took effect on the first of September, 1920. It must also be borne in mind that these statistics have given credit to class I railroads as the main carriers of traffic, while the percentage of those roads which were less than 3 per centum upon their value must eventually be abandoned and dismantled. This means if the situation remains as it is, inadequate additions and betterments upon about one-half of our entire mileage and the complete disuse of between 100,000 and 70,000 miles of railway which now burden the only transportation service for many millions of our people.

I have profound faith in the genius of our institutions and I am not suggesting that this indescribable injury will ever be inflicted upon our people, but I am suggesting that the solution of the problem will require something more than denunciation or harsh criticism.

One known seller of "I do the dirty work" which have been committed by railway promoters in the construction and the financing of many of our railroads, and no one has been more active than I have been during the last 20 years in the effort to prevent a repetition of these offenses. Under existing legislation a repetition is impossible and to secure that legislation I have devoted a great portion of my life to the objects which now interests me. In this take this railway system of ours as it is and make it competent to render the constantly increasing service which the welfare of the country requires; it must be maintained and advanced to its proper state of efficiency and adequacy.

Heretofore I have, in the main, been treating the subject as though the railways were all owned by a single corporation. They are, in reality, owned and operated by a thousand corporations or more. The number of class I roads varies from year to year; in 1922 they numbered a little less than 200. While I have referred to the insufficient earning of some of the class I roads and nearly all of the shortline roads, I desire now to take up that phase of the subject from another standpoint.

There is little difficulty in dealing with such roads as the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Erie, or the Chesapeake & Ohio, in the case of the Louisville & Nashville, or the Southern, in the case of the Chicago & North Western, the Chicago & Quincy, the Southern Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Northern Pacific or the Great Northern, in the west. To those I have named may be added many other comparable roads. These properties will be what we maintain themselves as what I will take them as with roads (and I will take them in alphabetical order) which are not so well known as the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic, with its 640 miles of main track, that in 1922 failed to earn operating expenses by nearly one-half of a million of dollars; the Atlantic City railroad, with its 177 miles operating at a net loss of nearly $200,000; the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, with its 590 miles, earning less than $1,000,000; the Panhandle & Santa Fe, with its 550 miles, and a net income of $250 per mile; the New York, Susquehanna & Western, with its 556 miles and a net loss of $30,000; the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company, with its 2,231 miles and a net loss of more than $1,000,000; the Panhandle & Santa Fe, with its 550 miles, and a net income of $250 per mile; the New York, Susquehanna & Western, with its 556 miles and a net loss of $30,000; the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company, with its 2,231 miles and a net loss of more than $1,000,000; the Panhandle & Santa Fe, with its 550 miles, and a net income of $250 per mile; the New York, Susquehanna & Western, with its 556 miles and a net loss of $30,000; the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company, with its 2,231 miles and a net loss of

COMPLETE JUDGING
AT COUNTY FAIR

WITH THE HOLSTEINS

County Herd Guernsey Grand Champion Bull — Win in Sweepstakes.

Dairy cattle in the Rock county show herds continued to win at the Rock county fair during the judging of Guernseys, Brown Swiss, Jerseys and Ayrshires. The judging was completed, even to the sweepstakes entries, by A. J. Crammer last Friday afternoon.

The county show herd scored well in the sweepstakes winning all of the championships in which there were county herd entry with the exception of the calf herd class.

The climax of the dairy showing was in the sweepstakes class in which the champions and one breed are pitted against the winners of the other breeds. It is difficult to make correct awards due to the difference in breed types.

Guernsey Bull Wins.

In the sweepstakes class for bulls there were three in the ring. Walcott's Ollie, Holstein, May King's Duke of Waubasha, a Guernsey, and a two year old Holstein bull from the Holstein herd of Waubasha.

Judge Crammer gave the championship to the Guernsey entry of the Rock county herd owned by Dr. W. A. Munn.

"This bull is the best dairy sire on the grounds to my estimation," declared Crammer. "The Guernsey entry is a really great dairy bull."

The grand championship cows was won by the county herd owned by Dr. H. E. Linton owned by J. A. Craig named Julia Harwood.

In the herd contest the Holsteins of the county herd, owned by J. A. Craig placed first, Guernseys from the Parkinson Farms, second; with the Jerseys from the E. E. Wyat farm, Tomah, third. In the young herd class, the Guernseys from the M. M. Johnson herd won first and the Wyat Jerseys second.

In the calf herd the Parkinson Guernseys placed first, the Wyat Jerseys, second and the Holsteins from the county herd, third. In the set of sire Ayrshires from the B. E. Simmons herd, Waubasha placed first and the Parkinson Guernseys, second. The calves from the W. J. Dougan herd, Beloit, shown with the county herd, placed first, the Parkinson Guernseys second and the Holstein entry from the Wisconsin School for the Blind, third.

Win on Guernseys.

There was a real show of Guernseys during the morning and the county herd entries captured all the blues except one with entries owned by W. J. Dougan, Dr. W. A. Munn, Alex Knudson, Woodman, and others. The two bulls, one a four year old owned by Dr. Munn and the two year old owned by W. J. Dougan had competition but placed first in their classes. The Parkinson herd had many good entries and there was a number of other good Guernseys shown by Warren, Peter and Marvin Patterson, Brown Swiss Class.

It was a nip and tuck contest in the Brown Swiss class with the county show herd entries from the farms of Bert Skinner, Ira Inman and John Cooper and Son, taking the blue in all classes but two and placing in the money every time in the ring. The large bull class was won by the Johnson herd, first, the class and was made senior champion. A bull calf from the Johnson herd was annexed to the junior championship herd and female division. In the cow class the county herd placed first, second and fourth, winning the blue on Miss Dixon from the Skinner farm. The herd of Fred Reuter, Leno, Rock, Wis., won in the half classes.

With Jersey the county herd repeated the entries from J. F. Smiley, W. H. North, Glenn Williams repeating to win honors in all but one class. A cow from the Smiley herd was senior champion and a heifer from the Williams herd, junior champion. The two year old bull from the North farm, Edgerton, was senior champion.

BIG AYRSHIRE SHOW.

There were three herds competing for Ayrshire honors and the county herd entries owned by J. C. Nisbet shared with honors with those from the Simons farm and the James Flint herd. Whitewater, Simmons' and a splendid two year old was senior champion. A senior veiling shown by Nisbet was junior champion. On Sunday, the first and second with senior cattle placed first and third. The Ayrshires shown and each animal in a different class.

GRANT STOCK SHOW.

The Red Polls owned by Seth Crall and Son were without competition. This herd will be shown in Janesville, and at the sale of stock.

The Rock county fair had an exceptional livestock exhibit, especially cattle. The quality was there, not only in the dairy breeds but in the beef breeds. Practically all the cattle shown at Evansville, with the exception of the Robinson Herefords, will be shown at Janesville and will be brought to this city on a special train Saturday night to unload Sunday.

THE ROCK COUNTY SHOW.

The Rock county show herd stock came through the first test with flying colors. There will be new herds to compete against at Janesville and different judges. The noted Brown Swiss herd of Nick Schmid will show here.

FINE EXHIBIT HERE.

There should be more than 500 head of cattle in exhibition at Janesville during the fair opening Tuesday.

The county herd will be greatly improved with new blood and some culling. Twenty head of Milking Shorthorns are to be added to the county aggregation and several Jerseys and Holsteins will be taken on.

The county herd cannot hope to repeat its exceptional winnings at Janesville or elsewhere on the circuit. But it is proven fact that there are many good show animals of all breeds being exhibited under the county's name. The county herd showed especially strong in the bull classes.

The cattle are showing better condition for during the first period of judging many of the animals showed a loss in condition due to the change from pasture to grain and hay feeding. Accustomed to their show circuit diet the stock is now coming through in splendid shape and should be in the bloom for the state fair.

BETTER RIBBONS FOR JANESVILLE FAIR.

Have you noticed the new ribbons for the Janesville fair? Nothing cheap about them for they are

URGE ALL FARMERS TO SUPPORT FAIR

Attendance to Determine if Agricultural Fair Be Continued.

BY LEWIS C. FRENCH.

Starting Tuesday the public's attention will turn to the fair and livestock exposition in Janesville.

Entries already received show that the Janesville fair will be one of the largest livestock exhibits ever held in Southern Wisconsin. In fact it will compare favorably with many of the western state fairs.

General interest has been created in Rock county and all over the country, but action for the future, from the fact Rock county is going out this year with show hands.

The county show herd entered as being a livestock center, but one of the things that the fair management is somewhat concerned about is the attendance from the rural districts.

IS FARMER'S FAIR.

Everyone appreciates these are very busy times with the farmers. They are in the midst of the harvest season with threshing at full swing. If it could be possibly arranged the fair dates at Janesville would have been changed to a later week in the season. On account of the country fairs in this vicinity holding dates for consecutive weeks until the last of September, there is no possible way to change to a later date unless we can run the fair in competition with another county fair in this district.

Here are three of the contenders for show ring honors in the Rock county Holstein show herd. All three came through the first showing for top ribbons.

The bull is a three year old owned by W. T. Hunt, Edina, Rock county, Wisconsin farm. He was placed second at Evansville showing in the age bull class. This year odds are better body and style.

The heifer is from the Rock county farm and is doted to be a good show animal as a junior yearling.

The calf is from the John Goldthorpe herd and goes into the get stock class.

There will be 18 milking Shorthorns and nine Guernseys.

The Janesville high school band will play several days as a part of the junior club program.

ARRANGE PROGRAM.

On Tuesday, Children's day, there will be time for entries assignments and a band concert for the club juniors and parents during the afternoon.

Fort Plays Here Against Booster Team on Sunday

Charlie Bick against Franko for a mound duel; the leading team of the league against the one in third place; the hardest hitting club against the one batting in second place; the two most natural groups of players in the southern Wisconsin league.

These are the characteristics that mark the contest to be played at The Pines here Sunday afternoon between Fort Atkinson and the Jamesville Boosters. Without any other factors entering the case, they should be sufficient to draw the largest gate that has attended any game of the circuit this season.

Can Jane Turn Trick?

But there is a great deal at stake. Fort Atkinson is going through the year with but one defeat. It has met keen competition from only two teams. One of them, the outfit that handed them their lone defeat, is Edgerton. The other, the club that has made them fight with fury, is Janesville.

AT LAST! To "Babe" Ruth goes first place of prominence in this week's review of the hitting abilities of the major leaguers. The Associated Press review, covering games of Wednesday, says: "Babe" Ruth, the original King of Swat, is proving to baseballdom that he is an valuable to his club, the New York Americans, this season, even better than continuing the averages he is only two points behind Harry Heilmann, the Detroit slugger, who has been topping the list almost from the start of the season. The big Yankee made a net gain on the Tykes on 24 points in the last week. Heilmann suffered a loss of nine points, dropping from .401 to .392, while Ruth gained 15 points, posting his mark from .375 to .390. Won't the kids of the nation be happy when he gets in first place?

THE BAMBINO is going right along at a heavy pace. He now has a total of 25 two more than a week ago and just two behind "Cy" Williams, the George Washington member of the Phillies. In seven games, Ruth scored eight times. He is in the lead with 25 runs and has 127 hits, of which 25 are doubles and eight triples.

HORNSEY still has the hitting lead of the national league going from .347 to .400. Eddie Collins, of the American association with .400, Cleveland is the slugging leader to make 1,000 hits this season, having 1,008. Eddie Collins of the White Sox still leads the sacrifice hitters with 20 and the thieves with 28 stolen bases. Grantham of the Cubs has 27 thefts. Traynor of Pittsburgh and Irvin of the Giants are tied with 20 bases in the National. Last week, Eddie Collins in the American association has 22 round trips, 247 total bases and 103 runs.

Yacht races in contest for British American cup postponed to Aug. 8 owing to president's death.

Bill Johnston beats R. Norris Williams, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1 in Semifinal finale.

Suzanne Lenglen, world's woman tennis champ, desires another match with Molla Bjurstedt.

Ned Liles again wins Wisconsin state golf title, beating Billy Sixty, 6 and 5.

Diamond Sparkles (By A. P.)—There was no baseball Friday. All games were cancelled by order of Commissioner Landis, due to the death of President Harding. As a result, only headers will be played in several of the major league cities Saturday.

Favona by J. Malcolm Forbes wins 2:10 trot at Windsor.

John Hennessey, midwestern tennis champ, defeated by George Lott, Jr., in semi-finals.

American golfers lead Canadian open qualifiers.

Saratoga races will be postponed Harding funeral day.

AT LAST! To "Babe" Ruth goes first place of prominence in this week's review of the hitting abilities of the major leaguers. What will it mean for Janesville? First, the Fort needs but one more win to clinch the league pennant. They will be as happy to take that game from Janesville and make it the third one else.

Chicago for Second. After defeating Edgerton last Sunday, 4 to 2, and displaying crack baseball, the Janes are in a position to shoot into second place—provided they win their next game.

What will it mean for the Lakotas? One of them, the Detroit boys at Cambridge, the boosters will be in second place, with an aggregate of 45 points. The Janes have 43 for Janesville to .58 for Edgerton.

In baseball there is no telling what is going to happen. The wise ones say that Fort is due for a bust. On the other hand, the Janes are at against Cambridge taking a win from Edgerton, the Tobacco lads having won two—4 to 2 and 2 to 1.

Great Crowd Expected.

The banner draws of the League season have begun at the previous games between Janesville and Fort. On the first game here a mighty host crowded every inch of space. At Fort Atkinson another huge crowd flooded the park there. An attendance greater than either of those occasions is bound to catch this fray. The arrival is going to set the choice seat.

Janesville will have only two more home games after this one, and this game will be the classic of the season. The two other games here will be with Cambridge—a postponed contest.

Debrief at Stoughton.

The other contest of the week will be between Debrief and Stoughton. It will take place in the beautiful park of the Hub city. Stoughton has won both contests between these two clubs in the past—0-3 and 2-0. The latter battle went in Janesville because of a decision of Debrief. There is a real feeling among these organizations that promises to mean a tough old game.

Bill Johnston beats R. Norris Williams, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1 in Semifinal finale.

Suzanne Lenglen, world's woman tennis champ, desires another match with Molla Bjurstedt.

New York police claim the solution of the $300,000 robbery of gems from Mrs. Irene Schoekopf, Buffalo, following the arrest of two men, Albert Horowitz and Eugene Moran, in connection with the theft which occurred in New York six months ago. Each of the suspects is being held in bail of $125,000 pending the hearings on the charge. Mrs. Schoekopf was dragged into a suite, rented by the robbers for the occasion, as she was leaving a New Year party in the apartment of friends.

Wealth and position didn't mean a thing to Miss Monice Mousseau when it came to picking a husband. Miss Mousseau, an Ottawa, Canada, girl, recently inherited a fortune of a million and a half. But just the same, and just after the inheritance came to her, she married Eugène Guibord, humble drug clerk in Ford City, near Detroit. Now they plan to open a drug store of their own.

Marie Price, photographed on the witness stand Whitfield trial.

Marie Price, the girl who John Leonard Whitfield said "wouldn't have the heart to testify against him," showed just what poor judges of women men are. The girl, Whitfield's former sweetheart who fled with him in his blue Jordan roadster after alleged killing of Patrolman Dennis Griffin of Cleveland, told the jury in a Cleveland court where Whitfield is being tried all the details of the flight. Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton is relying on her testimony to send Whitfield to the death chair.

Before taking the witness stand, Marie Price said:

"I will hold nothing back."

And she didn't.

At first in a snug, fitting black suit, with a black hat trimmed with a large ribbon, the girl folded her hands in her lap and gazed down upon Prosecutor Stanton.

Frequently her gaze strayed to the opposite side of the table where Whitfield sat, between two deputy sheriffs. But there were only fleeting glances.

The Trouble Shooter

Timely Tips for the Auto Owner.

How to Prevent Breakdowns on the Road

There is little pleasure in motoring unless you have a contented mind as far as your car is concerned. If you know it is O.K. you can hum along the road and enjoy your trip. If you have ever had any stops on the road, I think you will find, in most cases, that the trouble was due to your neglecting some part that should have had attention, and not to any actual defect in the car itself.

Some time ago, I was talking to an automobile owner who had had battery trouble while on a tour. Before starting he had bought a new battery, which did not give the slightest trouble during the first three weeks. One evening, however, he noticed that the lights were not as bright as usual, but due to the fact that he had just bought the battery before starting out, did not worry about it. The next night, however, the lights became so dim that he decided to consult an expert. The expert tested and examined the battery, then to my friend's surprise informed him that the battery was ruined.

The trouble was caused by the owner neglecting to keep the battery supplied with Distilled water. A would have saved the cost of a new battery.

Once a week during the warm weather, take out the vent plugs, then add DISTILLED WATER to each cell to  $\frac{1}{2}$ " above the plates. Do not completely fill the cells, there must be room left for expansion. If not renewed from time to time, the water evaporates, leaving the top parts of the plates inside the battery exposed. The current is then forced to pass through a much smaller plate area than was originally intended, causing them to become sulfated. They are then unable to stand the usual rate of charging, and rapidly heat, buckle, and warp, and the battery is permanently injured.

Buy a hydrometer, they only cost about 50 cents, and test the condition of your battery regularly. A fully charged cell will read between 1.280 and 1.300. If the reading is below 1.250 have it examined and recharged at once. Inspect your gasoline lines and connections to see that they do not leak at any point. Take out the strainer at the top of the Vacuum Tank and see that it is clear. Drain off a little gasoline from the bottom of the Vacuum Tank to remove any sediment or dirt that may have collected there. Make sure that the connections of the pipe on top of the Vacuum Tank that leads to the Intake Manifold is tight. If it is loose, it will allow air to leak in and the tank cannot operate properly. Open the drain cock at the bottom of the Carburetor and drain off some gasoline. If there is a strainer on the carburetor, take it out and see that it is clear. The above inspection should be made once a month.

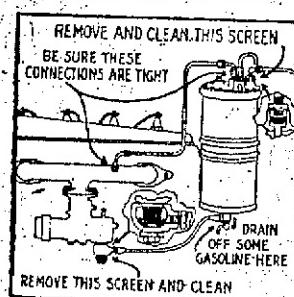

See that the gas and spark take particular pains to see that they close promptly when you retard them. Accidents happen frequently because the gas lever sometimes sticks or a cotter pin drops out, with the result that when you try to close the throttle, it won't close, and the engine will not slow down. If this ever happens to you, just keep your head and turn off the Ignition Switch.

Take out and examine all spark plugs about once a month. See that they are clean and that the gaps are correct.

Watch the Fan Belt to see that it is kept adjusted properly. Do not adjust too tightly, as it will cause the bushing in the bearing to wear and make the fan noisy, but do not have it too slack, or the belt will slip. Adjust the belt so that you can pull the fan over the pulley with two fingers.

Do not overload or run your car constantly at high speeds. Overloading and speeding put a strain on every part. Your car will stand this abuse for a time, but before long you will pay for it in cash to the repair man. High speeds set up a vibration that no car can withstand for long, and loosens every nut and bolt, including spring clips, shackles, bolts, radiator, holding down bolts, etc., and before long your car has developed a fine collection of squeaks and rattles. Go over and tighten all nuts and bolts at regular intervals. This attention is very necessary during the first 2,000 miles a car runs until all nuts and bolts have bedded down.

Keep the engine and all connections clean, then your car will not only last longer and function better, but it will also make it easier for you to quickly inspect all parts to see that they are in order. Do not tinker with adjustments unless you thoroughly understand what you are doing. Learn how to make all minor repairs and adjustments yourself. If you do not understand how to make an adjustment to a certain part, consult the instruction book you received with your car. If you want to learn a little more about the general operation and care of all makes of cars and know how to locate and correct motor trouble, procure a copy of the motor book recently written by the writer of this article. It covers the complete care of all types of cars in a simple and practical way.

Makes no difference where you roam—
There's no other place in this world
Like home, home, sweet, sweet home.

When we reflect upon the simplicity of this song, we are ready to ask—what are the charms that lie concealed in it? That bring tears to the weary and homeless, and touch the hearts of the poor and rich alike?

The magical word "Home" associated with the strains of music invariably weaken the boldest and most daring criminals. Home—that name touches every fiber of the soul and strikes every cord of the human heart with its angelic fingers. Nothing but death can break its spell. What tender associations are linked with home! What pleasing images and deep emotions it awakens! It calls up the fondest memories of life and opens in our nature the purest, deepest, richest flow of consecrated thought and feeling.

Home is the magic circle within which the weary spirit finds refuge; it is the sacred spot to which the care-worn heart retreats to find rest from the toils and inquietudes of life. Ask the lone wanderer as he plods his tedious way, bent with the weight of age, and white with the frost of years, ask him what home is. He will tell you, "It is a green spot in memory; an oasis in the desert; a center about which the fondest recollections of a grief-oppressed heart cling with all the tenacity of youth's first love." It was once a glorious, a happy first love. It was once a glorious, a happy reality, but now it rests only as an image of the mind.

Home has an influence which is stronger than death. It is law to our hearts, and binds us with a spell which neither time nor change can break; the darkest villainies which have disgraced humanity cannot neutralize it. Ask the little child what home is. You will find that to him it is the world—he knows no other. The father's love, the mother's smile, the sister's embrace, the brother's welcome, throw about his home a heavenly halo, and make it as attractive to him as the home of the angels. Home is the spot where childhood pours out all its complaints and sorrows, and home is the place where these are soothed and banished by the sweet lullaby of a fond mother.

Can you, who are not proud possessors of your own home, read this without vowing to start today realizing the greatest of all happiness—Home Ownership? And those of you who have homes of your own will want to make some improvements to beautify and make more dear that place that means so much to each and every one of us—HOME!

Plan No. 1656

This week we are featuring what is conceded to be one of the most attractive, convenient, practical and popular Spanish home designs ever created. It is in every way a home that cannot help but appeal to those who seek distinctiveness, uniqueness and careful study as to details; and because it embodies all the late modern features and conveniences, it represents a home that anyone would be glad to call their very own.

The exterior construction is of stucco which may be applied over brick, tile, wood or metal lath; a part of the roof is covered with tile, balanced with composition material.

A careful study of the room arrangement will convey compactness with a most practical division used as a sleeping porch, den or sewing room and gives to this home a distinctive air.

Any additional information regarding this home, plans, etc., will be gladly given by addressing the home building editor.
